PATRICK K. O'HARE

Experience

Patrick K. O'Hare is a member of Ober|Kaler's Health Law and Nonprofit Organizations Groups. Patrick's practice is national in scope and consists primarily of representing hospitals, hospital systems, long-term care providers and physician groups, as well as nonprofit corporations and charities.

Patrick is instrumental in helping clients plan and implement collaborative health care transactions such as acquisitions, mergers, affiliations, joint ventures and networks among hospitals, as well as between physicians and hospitals. His practice also includes business and tax planning.

Except for a short stint in the Environmental Protection Agency's General Counsel's Office, Patrick has focused his practice on health care and nonprofit law since the late 1970s.

Patrick serves as general counsel to several national charities. He is the author of dozens of articles on health care topics that have appeared in medical journals and professional publications.
